Temple Bor.

A gun is heard at the dead of night,

"Life-boat ready!"

"Life-boat ready!" Agun is heard at the dead of night,

"Hie beat read;"
And every man to the signal true,
Fights for place in the easer crew;

"Yow, lade, stead;"
First a glance at the shuddering foam,
Now a look at the foving home.
Then together with black breath
They launch their boat in the gulf of death.
Over the breakers wild,
Little they reak of weather,
But tear their way
Through the blinding apray.
Hear the skipper cheer and say:
"Up with her, lade, and lift her
All together?"

They see the ship in a sudden flash

They see the ship in a sudden flash
Sinking ever:
And grip their out with a deeper breath;
Now it's come to a fight with death.
Now or never!
Pitty strokes and they ire at her side,
If they live in the boiling tide,
If they last through the awful strife;
Ah, my lads, its a race for life!
Over the breakers wild.
Little they reck of weather,
But test heir way
Through blinding spray.
Hear the skipper cheer, and say;
"Up with her, tads, and lift her
All together!"

And loving hearts are on the shore,
Hoping, fearing.
Hoping, fearing.
Then the click of the oner you hear,
Then the click of the oner you hear,
Ne'er a thought of the danger past.
Ne'er a thought of the danger past.
Now the lads are on lend at last:
What's the storm to a gailant crew,
Who race for life, and who win it, too?
Over the breakers wild.
Little they reck of weather,
But tear their way
Through blinding spray,
Hear the skipper cheer, and say;
"Up with her, lads, and lift her
All together!"

A FIGHT WITH CACTUS.

A Risky Story of Western Misadventure Told By the Colonel. "Halt! What's that?" said our leader in a sharp whisper. It was a clear moonlight night in the extreme southwest of Mexico. I was visiting a friend who conducted a large ranch and hacienda there.

A local revolt had just been quelled in the neighborhood, and a spirit of lawlesaness still pervaded the atmosphere. Only the night before my friend had been fired upon and one of his storehouses robbed by a band of Indians some filteen or twenty strong. Early in the morning four of us, under the leadership of our host, had set out upon the track of the robbers.

We were well mounted and, resting only a few hours at noon, had followed hard after them till nearly midnight. If we met thom in a fair field we could drive them into quarters like cows to a pen, but we had no mind to run into a trap in the dark with five against A local revolt had just been quelled

THE THIEVES.

"Halt! What's that?" our leader had whispered. We had come to the edge of a dense woods and across an open space upon the brow of a low sandhill, space upon the brow of a low sandhill, clearly outlined in the moonlight, against the sky, we had discovered a dozon or more half naked fellows, with their arms extended in every direction, engaged in some sort of a weird, fantastic dance.

We could not see their legs, for the tops of the trees beyond the hill, rose waist high, making a black background, but their arms moved slowly to and fro and we could easily imagine their legs keeping company.

and we could easily imagine their legs keeping company.
"Those are the thieves!" our host muttered. "I know them, even at night. You fellows just come to the edge of the wood, where they can see you without knowing how many there are of you, and I'll have them down here in no time."

He rode out alone to the foot of the bill

It required no little courage, and we watched him with proportionate admiration.

The figures did not cease their dance or notice him. Suddenly, with his rifle at his shoulder, he called to them:—"I have you there! If one of you move I'll shoot him dead!"

The wind had been blowing through

The wind had been blowing through the trees, so that we could not have heard their response, but fortunately at that moment it ceased, and in the deep silence which settled down upon the forest in such a momentary jull we waited for the result.

Every Indian suddenly ceased his dancing and stood like a statue outlined

"Come down here, now," shouted our host. "Come quietly, too, for the first man who makes any trouble drops

We could hear a sound as of a hurried We could hear a sound as of a nurried consultation of some sort going on upon the hill for a moment, but the wind sprung up sgain before we could distinguish a single voice, and, to our utter astonishment, the fellows actually began their solemn dance again.

A COMMOTION. "Come down or I'll shoot!" roared our host, but they kept on dancing and he did shoot,

Then there was commotion enough. A wild cry, followed by a cloud of dust, rose from the brow of the hill. "Fire!" yelled our host, and we re-

A wild cry, followed by a cloud of dust, rose from the brow of the hill.

"Fire!" yelled our host, and we responded with a well aimed volley, while he whipped out his heavy revolver and gave them another peppering.

There was a pariect bedlam of screams from the hill, and the dust hid overything from view. They were either coming down upon us in an unexpected horde or running for their lives.

For us it was either fly or follow. We waited irresolutely, for the word of our leader, when the dust settled and there stood the Indians, silently going on with their fantastic dance as though we were a hundred miles away.

With a flerce ejaculation our host put spurs to his horse and dashed up the hill. We followed, without command, to find him upen the summit, sitting on the ground beneath a line of gaunt and ghostly like prickly pears—the ungainly cactus of Mexico.

They extended along the brow of the hill, their naked, skeleton branches spreading out in every unaccountable way and swaying solemnly in the broeze.

Among the roots a multitude of hur-Among the roots a mittitude of ther-rows in the dry dust showed where the sand birds had been lying, half-buried and quietly sleeping, and it was their noisy yelp we had heard when they were frightened away by our host's duel with the cactus.

FALSE HAIR. Will Women Wear it After Rending These Facts? Baltimore Herald.

The most expensive is the silver white, which is in great demand and very diffi-cult to find. Hair of the ordinary shades is obtained in two ways. The better and more expensive kind is cut directly more expensive kind is cut directly from the heads of peasant women, who sell their silken tresses sometimes for a mere song, and sometimes for a fair price, according as they learned wisdom. Every year the whole territory of France is traveled over by men whose business it is to persuade village maidens, their mothers and their aunts, to part with their hair for financial considerations.

The busy searches of ash heaps and siderations.

The busy searches of ash heaps and garbage barrels collect every day in the city of Paris alone, at least a hundred pounds of hair, which some hundreds of thousands of women have combed out of their heads during the preced-ing twenty-four hours. This hair, all mixed together and solled, one would think beyond redemption, is sold to hair cleaners at from $1 to $1 50 a pound, which shows simply that the fair sex in one city alone throws away annually about $60,000 worth of hair, for which they afterward pay—and it is the same hair, mind—considerably over $200,000. The cleaning of this refuse hair is an operation which requires careful attention. After the hair has been freed from the dust and dirt and mud and from the dust and dirt and mud and other unpleasant things with which it has come in contact in gutters and slop buckets, it is rubbed in sawdust utilit shines once more with its pristine gloss, and then the process of so ting is begun. In the first place, skillful hands fix the individual hairs in frames, with the roots all pointing the same way, and then they are arranged according to color. Finally, when a sufficient number of hairs of one color have been obtained—nor is this number so immense as is generally supposed—they are made into the beautiful braids which are shown so seductively in the windows of the fashionable coffeurs. If, as the book says, wisdom goes with the hair, she who places on her head one of those conglomerate braids might be said to receive a portion of the wisdom of hundreds of thousands of other women who had worn those hairs before: had worn those hairs before:

VARIOUS WAYS COOKING EGGS. The Many and Nourishing Dishes in

Which They Are Important. Eggs may be used in a variety of ways. A French paper says there are 300 different modes of serving them in France. Besides being prepared for the table, the beaten whites of eggs are an antidote for many poisons; they also, in combination with mustard, make a plaster whice has never been known to blister. They are easily digested and in mans cases act as a nutritious tonic for the invalid.

for the invalid.

To Poach an Egg.—Fill a frying-pan nearly full of boiling water, add one large tablespoon of vinegar. Break the egg into the pan very carefully. The water should not be boiling hard. Allow the white to cook so that no liquid part remains, then the yolk will be sufficiently done.

Omelette Souffle.—One cup of four, one pint of milk, one snoonful of sugar.

Omelette Souffle.—One cup of flour, one pint of milk, one spoonful of sugar, small piece of butter size of a walnut. Scald milk, flour and butter together. After the batter is cold stir in the yolks of five eggs. Stir in the froth of the whitee just before baking. Bake in a guick over.

quick oven. Eggs and Bread Crumbs.—Break some eggs into a small dish without injuring the yolks or lay one over the other. Drop on them some warm butter and slightly strew crumbs of bread. Put in the oven until the whites are set, and serve with a wreath of parsley round the eggs.

Odd Way of Serving Boiled Eggs.— Boil four eggs until very hard, remove the shells and cut them across, preservthe shells and cut them across, preserving the whites in the form of cups. Mince the yolks in small cubes with cold ham, parsely and salt. Mix these ingredients with cream until they form a thick paste. Fill the cups formed of the whites with this compound heaped up in the middle, cutting off a piece from the round end of the egg to make them stand.

Rumbled Eggs—Beat three eggs with two cupes of butter and a caspoonful two ounces of butter and a enspoonful of cream. Put into a saucepan and keep stirring on the fire nearly five minutes until it has risen up like little walles. Norve on buttered toast.

Eggs and Asparagus,-Cut the asparregs and asparagus.—Cut the asparague tops into small plees, both them quickly and drain. Heat up some eggs with a little pepper and salt and put them into a stewing-pan with the asparagus; add a good piece of fresh butter and keep stirring. When sufficiently thick take it off. Pour the asparagus and ears on this slice of toast. paragus and eggs on thin slices of toast and serve hot. Ezgnog.—Take six eggs and beat the Exnog.—Take six eggs and beat the whites and yolks separately. Add to a quart of rich milk half a cup of powdered sugar and then stir in the beaten yolks. Add a gill and a half of brandy and one gill of Jamaica rum. Flavor with nutmeg, and lastly whip in the whites of three eggs.

Egg Lemonade.—White of one egg, one tablespoonful of sugar, half a lemon, one goblet of water. Beat thoroughly together. Very grateful in inflammation of the bowels.

Eherry and Egg.—For one tumblerful

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E, Hurd, of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on taken with a bad cold which settled on my Lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles; it has cured me, and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at Logan Drug Co.'s Drug Store; regular size, 50 cents and $1.
